

Rabid statements of protecting the Earth is harmful.

5th. Nov. 2022.

Currently, some eco-activists behaviors have been reported in all over the world. They have argued that governments have not solved serious environment problems, for example, reducing plastic, declining CO₂ emissions. The climate activists took strange actions against the governments' policies. They hurted historical art heritages. They throw⁵ tomato soups to Van Gogh's sunflower, also throw mash potatoes to Monet's beautiful picture. These activists opinions are right, however, their violent actions are unforgivable. Violence can not solve the problematical issues no matter what.

Firstly, their idea would bring other negative feelings. The people¹⁰ who love beautiful arts are disappointed and upset when they heard the news. The conservationists claimed that people should feel hurtful when they saw the injured paintings. The activists explained that the Earth's pain is over comparing to the famous arts. However, who can judge which value is higher, the Earth having serious issues or historical art being¹⁵ attacked by selfish humans? The people who feel affection for arts wanted to provide a punishment to such childish behaviors. These conflict will lead to a new difficult issue.

Secondly, these activists' strange actions have caused huge problems for other people. For example, in England, July 2022, two men climbed the²⁰ towerbridge because they were against the government's policies of using oil. The bridge was closed two days and every traffic delay. If serious patients had to go to a hospital, they might not have received appropriate treatment. The activists' opinion is "Save the Earth". However, Ironically, they might take away people's lives by their egotistic actions.

Therefore, I completely disagree with the climate activists' violent behaviors. We should be wise and look for the other peaceful solutions to protect our beautiful planet.
